The inspiration for the statuettes came from the pen of Berta Hummel, a young German woman with strange artistic skills. She refined her techniques at the Munich Academy of Fine Arts. In 1934, Berta Hummel changed the direction of her life, taking her vows as a nun. After that, her name was Sister Mary's sketches on her new figurines. In 1935, Goebel forged an agreement with the convent and Sister Maria Innocent. Franz's family porcelain business, W. Goebel Porzellanfabrik, carefully crafts all the figurines, while Sister Mary maintained ultimate artistic control.
